Chapter 1

State of the bilateral and multilateral cooperation for the conservation of migratory birds relevant to Asia and the Pacific

1. Bilateral treaties	2
1.1. Treaties focused on migratory birds	2
(1) Convention between the Government of Japan and the Government of the United States of America for the protection of migratory birds and birds in danger of extinction, and their environment (Signed on 4 March 1972; entered into force 19 September 1974; as amended 19 September 19, 1974)	2
(i) Signature and entry into force	2
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	3
(iii) Bird species covered	3
(iv) Provisions for principles	3
(v) Obligations of the Parties	4
(a) Obligations for the protection of the Migratory Species	4
(b) Obligations for the protection of the Endangered Species	4
(c) Obligations common for Migratory Species and Endangered Species	5

(vi) Protocols and other instruments	6
(vii) Institutions	6
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	6
(ix) Amendment	6
(x) Settlement of disputes	6
(xi) Ratification	7
(xii) Authentic texts	7
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	7
(2) Convention between the Government of Japan and the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics for the protection of migratory birds and birds in danger of extinction, and their environment ¹ (Signed at Moscow on 10 October 1973; entered into force 20 December 1988)	7
(i) Signature and entry into force	7
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	8
(iii) Bird species covered	8
(iv) Provisions for principles	8
(v) Obligations of the Parties	9
(a) Obligations for the protection of the Migratory Species	10
(b) Obligations for the protection of the Endangered Species	10
(c) Obligations common for Migratory Species and Endangered Species	10
(vi) Protocols an other instruments	11
(vii) Institutions	11
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	11
(ix) Amendment	11
(x) Settlement of disputes	11
(xi) Ratification	12
(xii) Authentic texts	12
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	12
(3) Agreement between the Government of Japan and the Government of Australia for the Protection of Migratory Birds and Birds in Danger of Extinction and their Environment (Singed at Tokyo on 6 February 1974; Entered into force on 30 April 1981)	12
(i) Signature and entry into force	12
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	13
(iii) Bird species covered	13
(iv) Provisions for principles	13

¹ Because the authentic texts of the treaty are Japanese and Russian, this title is a provisional translation.

(v) Obligations of the Parties	14
(a) Obligations for the protection of the Migratory Species	14
(b) Obligations for the protection of the Endangered Species	15
(c) Obligations common for Migratory Species and Endangered Species	15
(vi) Protocols an other instruments	15
(vii) Institutions	16
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	16
(ix) Amendment	16
(x) Settlement of disputes	16
(xi) Ratification	16
(xii) Authentic texts	16
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	16
(4) Agreement between the Government of Japan and the Government of the People's Republic of China for the Protection of Migratory Birds and their Environment (Signed at Tokyo on 6 February 1974; Entered into force on 30 April 1981) ²	17
(i) Signature and entry into force	17
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	18
(iii) Bird species covered	18
(iv) Provisions for principles	18
(v) Obligations of the Parties	18
(vi) Protocols an other instruments	19
(vii) Institutions	19
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	20
(ix) Amendment	20
(x) Settlement of disputes	20
(xi) Ratification	20
(xii) Authentic texts	20
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	20
(5) Convention between the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Government of the United States of America concerning the conservation of migratory birds and their environment (Signed at Moscow on 19 November 1976; entered into force 13 October 1978)	21
(6) The bilateral treaty between India and Russia ³	21
(i) Signature and entry into force	21
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	22

² Because the authentic texts of the treaty are Japanese and Chinese, this title is a provisional translation.

³ Sufficient information is not available, including the title of the treaty.

(iii) Bird species covered	22
(iv) Provisions for principles	22
(v) Obligations of the Parties	22
(a) Obligations for the protection of the Migratory Species	23
(b) Obligations for the protection of the Endangered Species	23
(c) Obligations common for Migratory Species and Endangered Species	23
(vi) Protocols an other instruments	24
(vii) Institutions	24
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	24
(ix) Amendment	24
(x) Settlement of disputes	24
(xi) Ratification	24
(xii) Authentic texts	24
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	24
(7) Agreement between the Government of Australia and the Government of the People's Republic of China for the Protection of Migratory Birds and their Environment (Signed at Canberra on 20 October 1986; Entered into force on 1 September 1988)	25
(i) Signature and entry into force	25
(ii) Rationale for the development of the Convention	25
(iii) Bird species covered	26
(iv) Provisions for principles	26
(v) Obligations of the Parties	26
(vi) Protocols an other instruments	27
(vii) Institutions	27
(viii) Relationship with other treaties	27
(ix) Amendment	28
(x) Settlement of disputes	28
(xi) Ratification	28
(xii) Authentic texts	28
(xiii) The reality of the implementation and operation	28
(8) Other bilateral migratory bird conservation treaties	29
1.2. Bilateral treaties for general environmental conservation	29
(1) Agreement between the Government of Japan and the Government of the United States of America on cooperation in the field of environmental protection (Signed at Washington and entered into force on 5 August 1975 ⁴)	30
(2) Agreement between the Government of Japan and the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics on cooperation in the field of environmental protection (Signed

(4) Agreement between the Government of Japan and the Government of the People's Republic of China on Cooperation in the Field of Environmental Protection (Signed at Beijing and entered into force on 29 June 2993 ⁸⁾ ⁹	33
2. Other bilateral cooperation frameworks than treaties	35
3. Global multilateral treaties	35
3.1. Treaties focused on migratory birds	35
(1) Convention on the Conservation of Migratory Species of Wild Animals	35
(i) Objectives	35
(ii) Measures for Endangered Migratory Species	36
(iii) Measures for migratory species that have an unfavourable conservation status and those that have a conservation status which would significantly benefit from the international cooperation	37
(iv) General obligation for agreements for any population	37
(v) Guidelines for AGREEMENTS	37
(vi) Identification the Range States of migratory species and updating of the information	39
(vii) Conference of the Parties	39
(viii) Observers at meetings of the Conference of the Parties	39
(ix) Scientific Council	40
(x) Secretariat	40
(xi) Effect on International Conventions and Other Legislation	41
(xii) Amendment of the Convention and the Appendices	41
(xiii) Settlement of Disputes	41
(xiv) Ratification, acceptance or approval	41
(xv) Authentic text	42
(xvi) The reality of the implementation and operation	42
3.2. Environmental treaties related to migratory birds	48
(1) Ramsar Convention	48

(7) Recommendation 7.3 “Multilateral cooperation on the conservation of migratory waterbirds in the Asia-Pacific region”, 1999	96
(8) Initiative by the Australian Government	97
(9) Review work of the Asia-Pacific Migratory Waterbird Conservation Strategy 1996-2000	98
4. Contents of the Asia-Pacific Migratory Waterbird Conservation Strategy 1996-2000 by the Wetlands International	99
(1) Overview of the current state	100
(a) Biogeographical regions and responses	100
(b) Flyways in Asia and the Pacific	100
(c) Migratory waterbird species in Asia and the Pacific	103
(d) Waterbird species for which special protection measures are required	103

(e) Major threats to waterbirds	103
(f) Policies and legislation	104
(g) Treaties and other international instruments	104
(h) Conservation activities	105
(2) Recommendations on priority actions	105
(a) Enhancement of site conservation	105
(b) Establishment of flyway reserve networks	105
(c) Development and implementation of migratory waterbird conservation action plans	106
(d) Promotion of the sustainable management of migratory waterbirds	106
(e) Promotion of conservation-oriented monitoring and research activities	106
(f) Establishment of advanced migratory waterbird and wetland information storage and retrieval systems	107
(g) Increased education and public awareness	107
(h) Promotion of information flow among waterbird and wetland conservation researchers	108
(i) Training of personnel associated with the survey, study and management of waterbirds and their habitats	108
(j) Review and strengthening of waterbird and habitat conservation policies and legislation	108
(k) Development of an Asia-Pacific Multilateral Migratory Waterbird Conservation Agreement	109
(3) Implementation of the Strategy	109
1) Framework	109
2) Funding	110
3) Timetable	110

Chapter 3

Analysis of the existing bilateral and multilateral frameworks for the cooperation for the conservation of migratory birds in Asia and the Pacific and of the recommendations on the establishment of a multilateral framework for the cooperation for the conservation of migratory birds in Asia and the Pacific

1. Rationales for establishment of a framework for multilateral cooperation	111
(1) Rationales identified in the existing bilateral migratory bird treaties	111
(2) Rationales identified in other treaties	112
2. Contents of multilateral cooperation	116
(1) Definition of favorable conservation statutes	116
(2) General provisions for the measures to be taken	117
(3) Measures to be taken by individual Parties	118

(4) Measures to be taken through the Parties' interaction	120
(5) Measures to be taken by the Conference of the Parties	120

Chapter 4

Options for the contents of a multilateral framework for the cooperation for conservation of migratory birds in Asia and the Pacific and strategies to develop it

1. Contents of the framework	122
(1) Geographical scope	122
(a) Eco-geographical scope	122
(b) Status of the territories with incomplete sovereignty	124
(2) Species to be covered	124
(a) Species covered by the existing bilateral treaties	126
(i) Migratory bird species	126
(ii) Endangered bird species	127
(b) Whether to cover endangered species	128
(i) Coverage of endangered species by CITES	128
(ii) The measures other than the control of international trade	129
(c) Whether to cover all migratory species or migratory water bird species only	130
(d) Classification of the species in accordance with their conservation status	131
(e) Potential taxonomic issues	133
(3) Objective of the cooperation	133
(4) Contents of substantive cooperation	133
(5) Relationship with other treaties	134
(6) Provisions for the formalities required to ensure the effectiveness of the cooperation	135
(a) Institutional arrangements	137
(i) Conference of the Parties	137
(Provisions in the existing treaties)	137
(Role for the management of the regime)	143
(Role to realize the objectives of the regime)	144
(Ensuring efficiency and effectiveness)	144
(Observers at the meetings of the Conference of the Parties)	145
(Frequency of the regular meetings)	146
(ii) Subsidiary organs of the Conference of the Parties	146
(The recent tendency of providing for specific subsidiary organs in the treaty texts)	146
(Committees as intergovernmental negotiations and as advisory organs)

of specialists)	147
(Frequency of the meetings and the character of some organs as a sessional committee)	147
(Provisions allowing establishment of additional subsidiary organs)	147
(Prevention of proliferation of subsidiary organs and ensuring the effectiveness and efficiency of all organs)	148
(iii) Secretariat	148
(Responsibilities of the secretariat)	148
(Provision of the functions of the secretariat by an existing organization)	153
(Location of the secretariat)	154
(b) Financial resources	155
(i) Provisions in the existing treaties	155
(Obligatory financial contribution for the management of the regime)	155
(Voluntary fund for the activities to support the realization of the objectives of the regime)	156
(Financial mechanism to support developing country Parties)	156
(ii) The level of the budget	158
(iii) Utilization of the existing organizations for the management of the financial resources	161
(c) Appendices and protocols	161
(i) Appendices	161
(ii) Protocols	162
(iii) Agreements under the CMS	162
(iv) Action Plan as an Appendix to the AEWA	162
(d) Procedures for amendment	163
(e) Settlement of disputes	163
(f) Conditions for the entry into force	164
(g) Procedures for denunciation	165
(h) Acceptance of reservation	165
(i) Provision for the period in which a treaty is in force	166
(j) Depositary of a multilateral treaty	166
(k) The language of the authentic texts	167
(6) Forms of the frameworks for multilateral cooperation	168
2. Process and strategies for establishment of a multilateral framework	172
(a) Ensuring participation of as many States, organizations and agencies in the regions	172
(b) Host of the negotiations for establishment of the framework	174
(i) The roles UNEP has been playing in environmental treaty making	174
(ii) Before the establishment of UNEP	174

(iii) In responding to global political issues	175
(iv) A common pattern of multilateral environmental treaty making	175
(v) Options for the host for the negotiations for establishment of the framework for multilateral cooperation for the conservation of migratory birds in Asia and the Pacific	176
